According to the Department of Business Administration academic policies: academic integrity is a basic guiding principle for all academic activities. It requires performing the scholarly activities in an open, honest, and responsible manner.

According to Department of Business Administration’s academic integrity policy; toleration is not the case when someone engage in academically dishonest behavior.

These behavior are listed below;

-Cheating,
-Plagiarism,
-Fabrication of information or citations,
-Signing attendance sheet on the behalf of somebody else,
-Being engaged with the phone and keeping it open during the course,
-Unauthorized possession of examination,
-In the case of absenteeism on any exam, without reporting excuse petition directly asking to instructor for taking exam,
-Unauthorized recording and copying of courses and course materials (by photo, audio or video etc.),
-Copying/presenting/submitting/ work of another person,
-Presenting/submitting a homework/report/presentation previously used in another course without informing the instructor.

These or similar behavior that violate the academic integrity will be investigated and corrective disciplinary action will be taken.